The Canadian Association of Wound Care is a non-profit organization of health-care professionals, industry participants, patients and caregivers dedicated to the advancement of wound care in Canada.

The CAWC was formed in 1995, and its official meeting is the CAWC annual conference held in Canada each year. The association's efforts are focused on five key areas: public policy, clinical practice, education, research and connecting with the international wound-care community. The CAWC works to significantly improve patient care, clinical outcomes and the professional satisfaction of wound-care clinicians.

L'Association canadienne du soin des plaies est un organisme sans but lucratif regroupant des professionnels de la santé, des gens de l'industrie, des patients et des membres du personnel soignant fortement intéressés à l'avancement des connaissances pour le soin des plaies au Canada.

Fondée en 1995, l'ACSP organise, chaque année, au Canada, un congrès qui lui tient lieu de réunion officielle, le Congrès annuel de l'ACSP. L'association consacre ses efforts dans cinq domaines particuliers : les politiques gouvernementales, la pratique clinique, la formation, la recherche et la création de liens avec la communauté internationale directement impliquée dans le soin des plaies. L'Association canadienne du soin des plaies vise une amélioration significative du soin donné au patient, des résultats cliniques et de la satisfaction professionnelle des spécialistes en soin des plaies.

Regarding the article "The Nursing Practice of Conservative Sharp Wound Debridement: Promotion, Education and Proficiency" by Ruth J. Harris in Wound Care Canada, 2009;7 (1):26: The Registered Nurses Association of the Northwest Territories and Nunavut does not have a policy on conservative sharp wound debridement but does have a scope of practice document with a decision-making tool for registered nurses to determine if they have the knowledge and skill to perform a procedure such as conservative sharp wound debridement. The practice of conservative sharp wound debridement in the Northwest Territories and Nunavut may also be governed by employer-based policies.
